

Dental Advice Line

GPs do not have the specialist skills to support you with Dental problems and most problems occurring in the mouth should also be seen by a Dentist rather than your GP.

If you are registered with an NHS Dentist then you should contact them in the first instance for dental advice and appointments.

The Dental Advice Line is also available to call between 9.00 am – 5.00 pm Monday to Friday. They can be contacted on 0300 123 0981.

If you are not registered with an NHS Dentist, our Receptionists will be able to search current information for local Dentists near to you who are accepting new NHS patients.

If you experience any problems when Dental services are closed, please call the NHS Out of Hours service on 111.
